

Thank you for purchasing the Benchmaster Rifle Rest, the Cadillac of Rifle Rests.

Assembly:

In the box you will find the two (2) steel components of the frame; the longer of the two is called the main frame, and the other piece, in which the main frame fits, is called the base.

Align the main frame inside the channel of the base with the front bag and level resting over the cross bar/ legs of the base.

Insert the connector knob from the side opposite the welded nut so that it screws into the welded nut on the main frame. Be careful not to over tighten – the main frame should be able to move freely.

Insert one end of the spring assembly into base so through the macro adjustment slot until both ends align with the fine adjustment knob in the main frame as shown.

Your assembled Benchmaster is now ready for use!

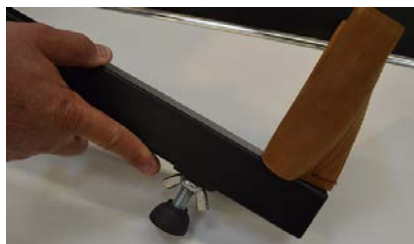

Instructions for Use:

Place the assembled Benchmaster onto a stable platform such as the Mark Thompson Signature Shooting Table from Benchmaster. Ensure the legs are not too close to the edge of the platform as there may be some movement of the bench rest due to recoil.

Macro Adjustment – The Main Frame can be raised or lowered to three separate positions depending on the angle to target using the macro adjustment. Gripping the sides of the Spring Assembly, simply lift the Main Frame and set the Spring Assembly into the desired channel. Be sure the Spring Assembly is completely set in the channel to prevent inadvertent change of position.

Micro Adjustment – A finer adjustment can be achieved by turning the Micro Adjust Knob. The Benchmaster Main Frame can be raised or lowered approximately 10 degrees using the micro adjust. Beyond 10 degrees the Micro Adjust Knob will lose effectiveness.

Leg Adjustment – The Benchmaster can be leveled by raising or lowering any of the three legs. To adjust a leg, first loosen the wing nut until it is clear of the frame then turn the bolt to extend or contract the bolt.

Warranty – Your Benchmaster rifle rest comes with a lifetime warranty for all metal or plastic parts. Replacement leather front bags and stock brace can be purchased direct from Altus Brands by visiting www.benchmasterusa.com.
